RE: Notice of Data Breach

Dear Sample A Sample:

MMBB Financial Services (“MMBB”) is writing to notify you of a recent data security incident that may impact the security of your personal information. MMBB writes to advise you of our investigation and the steps we are taking in response to this incident as well as steps you can take to protect your personal information should you feel it is appropriate to do so.

What Happened? In September 2018, MMBB discovered that an employee’s email account was subject to unauthorized access. MMBB’s IT personnel discovered a mail forwarding rule set up in the employee’s email account that was not set up by the user. Upon discovering the unauthorized access, MMBB immediately changed the employee’s password and commenced an internal investigation into the incident. MMBB also engaged a forensics expert to conduct a third-party forensic investigation. Through the investigation, MMBB has determined the employee’s account was subject to unauthorized access from September 11, 2018 to September 17, 2018. Out of an abundance of caution, the investigator reviewed all of the emails in the compromised account to determine whether the emails contained any protected information. On February 22, 2019, we determined that one or more of the emails accessible in the account contained sensitive information related to you.

What Information Was Involved? The information in the account that was potentially subject to unauthorized access includes your name , Exposed Data Element 1, Exposed Data Element 2, Exposed Data Element 3.

Steps You Can Take to Protect Against Identity Theft and Fraud

We encourage you to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud, to review your account statements, and to monitor your credit reports for suspicious activity. Under U.S. law you are entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. You may also contact the three major credit bureaus directly to request a free copy of your credit report.

You have the right to place a “security freeze” on your credit report, which will prohibit a consumer reporting agency from releasing information in your credit report without your express authorization. The security freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a security freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, you cannot be charged to place or lift a security freeze on your credit report. Should you wish to place a security freeze, please contact the major consumer reporting agencies listed below:

As an alternative to a security freeze, you have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on your file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any one of the agencies listed below:
