PLEASE REVIEW CAREFULLY

Dear

We wanted to make you aware of a recent data security incident involving potential unauthorized access to payment card data entered at Marmishoes.com, Wolff Shoe Company's online store, over a limited period of time. The privacy and security of your personal information is of utmost importance to us and we are routinely evaluating and improving our security and payment systems to ensure your information is secure.

What Happened?

After suspicious activity on our website was identified, we immediately contained the issue, engaged external forensic investigators, and commenced a prompt and thorough investigation into the incident. As a result of this review, we learned that certain customer credit and debit card information may have been obtained by an unauthorized party when such card information was entered into the payment fields on the website in connection with an online purchase between March 11, 2019 and May 24, 2019. We do not have evidence demonstrating the unauthorized individuals actually obtained this information and we are not aware of any fraudulent transactions at this time. We are nevertheless providing this notice out of an abundance of caution. Purchases through our physical store locations were not impacted by this incident.

What Information Was Involved?

On October 1, 2019, we discovered that the information that may have been acquired in this incident included your name, credit or debit card number, card expiration date and CVV (3 or 4 digit code on the front or back of the card).

What We Are Doing

Because we value our relationship with you, we wanted to make you aware of the incident. We also wanted to let you know what we are doing to further secure your information, and suggest steps you can take. We are conducting ongoing monitoring of our website and payment portal to ensure that they are secure and cleared of any malicious activity.

What You Can Do

- OTHER IMPORTANT INFORMATION -

You should remain vigilant for incidents of fraud and identity theft by regularly reviewing your account statements and monitoring free credit reports for any unauthorized activity. If you discover any suspicious or unusual activity on your accounts, be sure to report it immediately to your financial institutions, as major credit card companies have rules that restrict them from requiring you to pay for fraudulent charges that are timely reported.

In addition, you may contact the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) or law enforcement, such as your state attorney general, to report incidents of identity theft or to learn about steps you can take to protect yourself from identity theft. You can contact the FTC at:

Federal Trade Commission 600
Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580
(877) IDTHEFT (438-4338)
<https://www.identitytheft.gov/>

If you find that your information has been misused, the FTC encourages you to file a complaint with the FTC and to take these additional steps: (1) close the accounts that you have confirmed or believe have been tampered with or opened fraudulently; and (2) file and keep a copy of a local police report as evidence of the identity theft crime.

Obtain Your Credit Report

You should also monitor your credit reports. You may periodically obtain credit reports from each nationwide credit reporting agency. If you discover inaccurate information or a fraudulent transaction on your credit report, you have the right under the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) to request that the credit reporting agency delete that information from your credit report file.

In addition, under the FCRA, you are entitled to one free copy of your credit report every 12 months from each of the three nationwide credit reporting agencies. You may obtain a free copy of your credit report by going to www.AnnualCreditReport.com or by calling (877) 322-8228. You also may complete the Annual Credit Report Request Form available from the FTC at <https://www.consumer.ftc.gov/articles/pdf-0093-annual-report-request-form.pdf>, and mail it to Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA 30348-5281. You may also contact any of the three major credit reporting agencies to request a copy of your credit report.

Place a Fraud Alert or Security Freeze on Your Credit Report File

In addition, you may obtain information from the FTC and the credit reporting agencies about fraud alerts and security freezes. A fraud alert can make it more difficult for someone to get credit in your name because it tells creditors to follow certain procedures to protect you, but it also may delay your ability to obtain credit. If you suspect you may be a victim of identity theft, you may place a fraud alert in your file by calling just one of the three nationwide credit reporting agencies listed below. As soon as that agency processes your fraud alert, it will notify the other two agencies, which then must also place fraud alerts in your file. An initial fraud alert will last 1 year. An extended alert stays on your file for seven years. To place either of these alerts, a consumer reporting agency will require you to provide appropriate proof of your identity, which may include your Social Security number. If you ask for an extended alert, you will have to provide an identity theft report.

Also, you can contact the nationwide credit reporting agencies regarding if and how you may place a security freeze on your credit report, at no charge. A security freeze prohibits a credit reporting agency from releasing information from your credit report without your prior written authorization, which makes it more difficult for unauthorized parties to open new accounts in your name. However, please be aware that placing a security freeze on your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prevent the timely approval of any requests you make for new loans, credit mortgages, employment, housing, or other services. The credit reporting agencies have 3 business days after receiving a request to place a security freeze on a consumer's credit report. Unlike a fraud alert, you must separately place a credit freeze on your credit file at each credit reporting company.
