Notice of Data Breach

Dear <<MemberFirstName>> <<MemberLastName>>,

You are receiving this notice because of a data security incident that may have involved some of your personal information from a recent purchase you made either via telephone or online from one of the following Fruitful Yield, Inc. ("Fruitful Yield") e-commerce websites: FruitfulYield.com, NOW-2-U.com, and VitaminExperts.com.

Just because you made a purchase on one of these websites does not mean you are a victim of fraud. We encourage you to review the information in this letter for steps that you can take to protect yourself against the potential misuse of your information.

What Happened?

It recently came to our attention from one of the outside service providers for these websites that during the time period from January 7, 2016 to March 21, 2016, an unauthorized person gained access to the affected sites and may have acquired certain information about our customers. We first learned of the incident from our service provider on March 17, 2016 and have been working closely with them to identify persons potentially affected. This notice has not been delayed because of a law enforcement investigation.

We value your business, respect the privacy of your information, and take this matter very seriously. We began investigating the incident as soon as we learned of it and took immediate action, including analyzing our databases for unknown user accounts the unauthorized user may have created and changing administrative account passwords.

What Information Was Involved?

The personal information potentially exposed included:

- Customer name and address
- Credit card number and expiration date and CVV
- Customer username and password for the websites

What Are We Doing?

In addition to the steps noted above, we have put security patches in place, removed files uploaded by the unauthorized user, enhanced our Internet protocol ("IP") address encryption, updated encryption keys, increased monitoring of log files, and further restricted access to our databases.

What You Can Do.

While we will continue to take steps to improve our security, there are also some steps that you can take to help protect yourself, such as:

- Regularly Reviewing Your Credit Card Statements. We recommend you remain vigilant by regularly reviewing your credit card statements and immediately alerting your credit card issuing bank of any suspicious charges. This is the most important step that you can take to detect and prevent any unauthorized use of your credit card number.

- Changing Your Passwords. Fruitful Yield does not store plain text passwords in its database, but it is possible that the unauthorized user had access to passwords in plain text before they reached our database. We urge you immediately to change any password that you use at the FruitfulYield.com, NOW-2-U.com, or VitaminExperts.com websites. Additionally, we highly recommend that you change these passwords on other online sites if you use the same or a very similar password at those sites.
- Obtaining a Free Credit Report. You may request a free copy of your U.S. credit report once every 12 months by visiting www.annualcreditreport.com or by calling 1-877-322-8228 toll free. You can print a copy of the request form at <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/menus/consumer/credit/rights.shtm>. You also may want to consider contacting one of the major credit bureaus listed below to place a fraud alert on your credit reports:

Equifax: 800 525-6285; www.equifax.com; P.O. Box 740231, Atlanta, GA 30374-0241;

Experian: 888 397-3742; www.experian.com; P.O. Box 9532, Allen, TX 75013;

TransUnion: 800 680-7289; www.transunion.com; Fraud Victim Assistance Division, P.O. Box 6790, Fullerton, CA 92834-6790

Other Important Information.

- Federal Trade Commission and Law Enforcement. If you believe you are the victim of identity theft, you should immediately contact your local law enforcement agency, your state's attorney general, or the Federal Trade Commission.
