Dear <<Member Name>>,

We are sending this letter to you as part of your employer group health plan's commitment to the privacy of its members' confidential information. MedWatch, LLC ("MedWatch"), an entity that has provided or continues to provide underwriting and/or medical management services for your group health plan, takes privacy very seriously, and it is important to us that you are informed of a recent matter that may impact you.

MedWatch recently learned that one of our vendors unintentionally misconfigured our online portal during a routine update which allowed some internet search engines to potentially make certain information accessible on the internet during the time period from October 20, 2017 until December 15, 2017. Upon learning of the incident, we immediately secured the portal, requested the internet search engines to remove all cached data related to this matter, continued to monitor these efforts, and conducted an internal investigation to determine the root cause of the incident and to prevent the incident from reoccurring. An external security firm was also engaged to verify our findings, confirm the prevention steps we undertook were appropriate, and assist with identifying the full extent of the information that could have potentially been accessible as a result of this incident. On March 1, 2018, we determined that the following types of confidential information may have been accessible as a result of the misconfiguration: members' full name, date(s) of service, employer group health plan name, date of birth, health insurance number and providers' full names. However, we are currently not aware of any misuse of members' protected health and/or personal information.

We take this matter very seriously and sincerely apologize that this situation has occurred. We have taken steps to enhance our security program, controls, and procedures as a result of this incident. We also have re-educated our staff and vendor on the proper handling of personal and protected health information.

Once again, we have no evidence that the information involved has been misused, but out of an abundance of caution we are notifying you of this matter and including the enclosed guidance on how you can better protect against identity theft and fraud. We apologize for any inconvenience or concern this incident may have caused. We hope that the information provided in this letter will be helpful; however, if you have any questions, please feel free to call (866) 858-2133, Monday through Friday from 8:00am to 8:00 p.m. Eastern Time.

Sincerely,

Steps You Can Take to Protect Against Identity Theft and Fraud

We encourage you to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud, to review your account statements, explanation of benefits and to monitor your credit reports for suspicious activity. Under U.S. law you are entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus. To order your free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. You may also contact the three major credit bureaus directly to request a free copy of your credit report.

At no charge, you can also have these credit bureaus place a “fraud alert” on your file that alerts creditors to take additional steps to verify your identity prior to granting credit in your name. Note, however, that because it tells creditors to follow certain procedures to protect you, it may also delay your ability to obtain credit while the agency verifies your identity. As soon as one credit bureau confirms your fraud alert, the others are notified to place fraud alerts on your file. Should you wish to place a fraud alert, or should you have any questions regarding your credit report, please contact any one of the agencies listed below.

You may also place a security freeze on your credit reports. A security freeze prohibits a credit bureau from releasing any information from a consumer’s credit report without the consumer’s written authorization. However, please be advised that placing a security freeze on your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prevent the timely approval of any requests you make for new loans, credit mortgages, employment, housing, or other services. If you have been a victim of identity theft, and you provide the credit bureau with a valid police report, it cannot charge you to place, list or remove a security freeze. In all other cases, a credit bureau may charge you a fee to place, temporarily lift, or permanently remove a security freeze. You will need to place a security freeze separately with each of the three major credit bureaus listed above if you wish to place a freeze on all of your credit files. To find out more on how to place a security freeze, you can use the following contact information:
